

BARAKAT
DR. GHAS

MINISTER OF HIGHER EDUCATION

Syrian Arab Republic

Education:

1974–1975, Baccalaureate in English Language and Literature, Damascus University; 1977, Diploma in Education, Damascus University; 1981–2, MA in Practical Linguistics (Teaching English as Second Language), Texas University, Austin, Texas; 1985, Doctorate in Practical Linguistics (Teaching English as Second Language), Texas University, Austin, Texas.

Professional Experience:

1977, Teacher of English, Faculty of Commerce, Damascus University; 1979, Lecturer at Faculty of Literature and Humanities, Aleppo University; 1985–1987, Lecturer in English Department, Aleppo University; 1987–2000, Director of Consultation Centre for English Language; 1991–1992, Assistant Professor of English, Language Department, Aleppo University; 1992, Member of Committee of Academic Research, Council of Higher Education; 1995, Professor English Department, University of Aleppo.

Currently Minister of Higher Education, Syrian Arab Republic

Publications:

Dr. Barakat has published numerous research articles for the University of Aleppo as well as international universities. He has also delivered presentations at a wide variety of conferences both in Syria and internationally.

Memberships:

- 1997, Head of Syrian Computer Society, Aleppo Branch
- Member of Board of Trustees of Syrian Computer Society